scroll below for details and previous work

& Clientele

DTF Printing

Direct to film printing is also known as sticker print. Using this technique, we print colourful and detailed designs. It is ideal for t-shirts and hoodies but can be used on polos as well.

This kind of of printing is used for our corporate clients which have colourfull logos as well as colleges requiring customized t-shirts (Different name behind every t-shirt as in the picture below).

SCREEN Printing

Screen printing is a technique in which the dye is transferred to the fabric using a mesh screen. This technique is ideal for designs having 1-5 colours and the qty. being large.

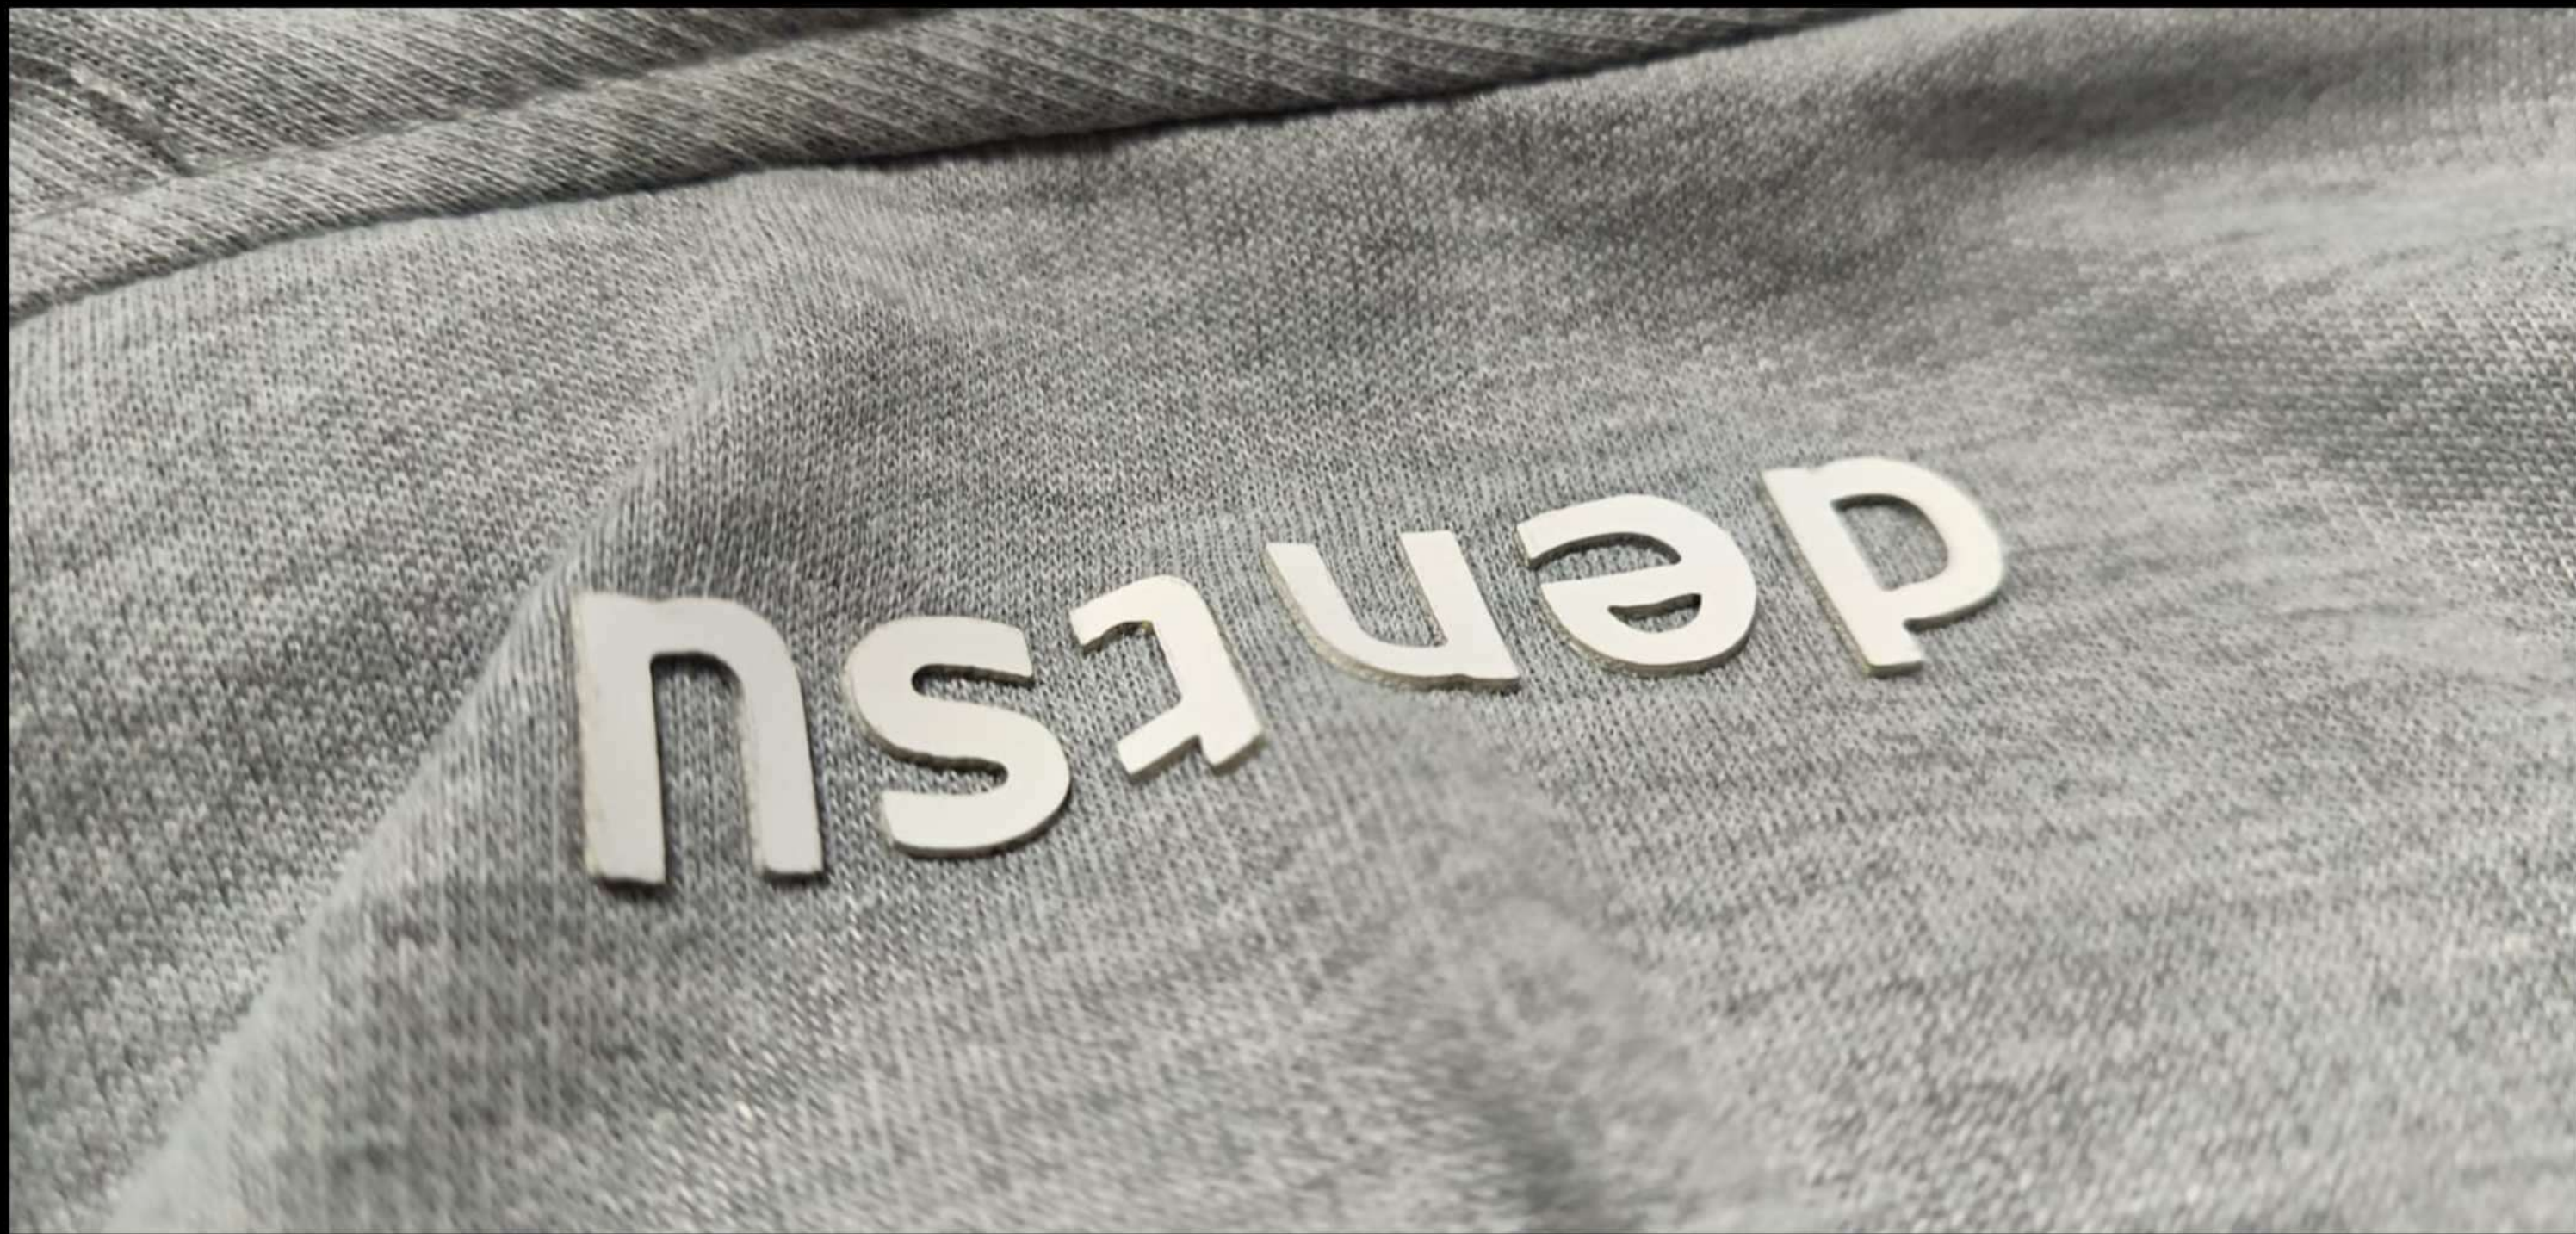

When the dye is transferred to the garment multiple times, over the same design, it puffs out giving a 3D touch and premium feel.

VINYL printing

This printing technique involves different types of vinyl being cut and fused onto the garment. We have a wide range of types of vinyl of multiple colours and textures such as gold foil, silver foil, reflective, rubber, glow in the dark, holographic etc.

These vinyls are cut by our laser machines into the shape of your design and then heat pressed on the garment

DTG Printing

DTG, or Direct To Garment printing is a process where the ink is transferred straight to the fabric of the t-shirt, This process is costly and suitable for high end prints where the design is embedded into the fabric.

This type of printing takes longer than the other methods and is suitable for clothing brands looking to print colourful designs in a much premium way as compared to dtf.

EMBROIDERY

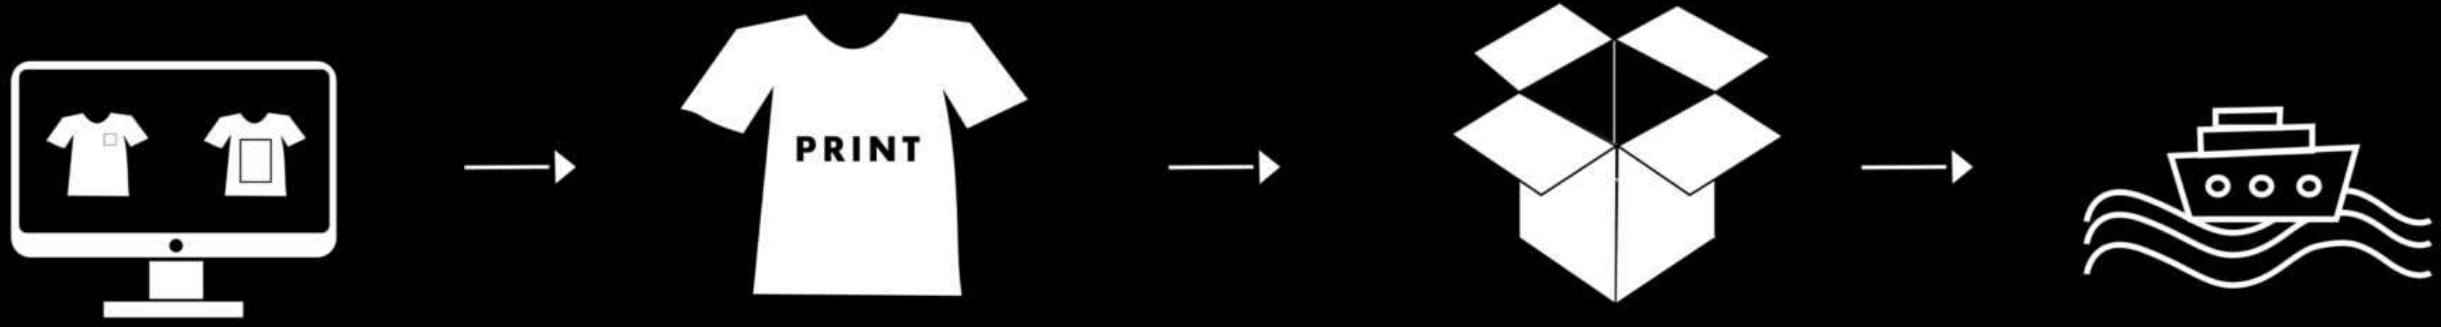

At The Randoms Studios we use cutting edge apanese machines for our precision embroidery services apparel, bringing your vision to life with unmatched accuracy and quality. Whether it's custom logos, intricate patterns, or personalized monograms, our state-of-the-art equipment ebsures every stitch is perfect.

The rate of emboidering a single piece depends intricacy of the design, its size, number of colours and quantity.

WHITE LABELLING

One can also set up their own brand with us, Right from the designing process to the package product all read to ship out.
